survivors of that Legislature who have made such statements.

The paper referred to is as follows:
The undersigned were members of the House of Delegates of Virginia, session of 1891-'92. We see from the public press that it is charged that Senator Martin took an active part to defeat the Kent railroad bill, and was an agent for handling a corruption fund for that purpose. In justice to fund for that purpose. In justice to Senator Martin, as well as the members of that Legislature, we feel that it is but right and proper for us to say:

First-That some of us supported

First—That some of us supported and voted for the said Kent railroad bill, and some supported and voted for the Mason substitute for the Kent railroad bill.

Second—That Senator Martin did not exert, or attempt to exert, any influence with us, or any one of us, in regard to said measure, or any other measure, considered by the Legislature.

Third-That at that time we did not

Third—That at that time we did not hear, or have any reason to suppose that Mr. Martin took any part whatever with reference to said railroad bills, or any other legislation pending before that body.

Fourth—That the charge or insuation that there was a corruption fund used with said Legislature is a reflection upon the members of that Legislature so grave and insuiting as to require the maker of such charge to specify and to furnish the strictest proof. We did not hear any intimation at the time, nor was thore any suspicion at the time, that there was any such corruption fund. We believe

Brad Catalogy and the large of the better buying movement a moderate degree, but developments in this, as in other lines, are not satisfactory, and current clearance sales, with marked reductions in prices, evidently leave little room for profits. Crop reports show little significant change, while commodity prices do not display any material differences, the undertone of the latter, on the whole, being firm. Operations in industrial lines are repressed, curtallment being still general in textile lines, while there is talk of retreachment and reduction in working forces on some of the country's railway lines. Incidentally there seems to be more indications of strikes among shopmen for higher wages and the enforcement of other conditions. However, trafficial increasing, and the number of idle cars is now smaller than it has been during the past eight months. In the iron and steel l'ine new orders are disappointingly W 1t, and output exceeds the intake of new business. Iron ore mining is restricted, and a short season of shipping is in prospect on the Lakes. Operations in the stock market are marked by a light domand for bonds, by falling prices for stocks and considerable bearish sentiment, though liquidation is not so marked as in recent weeks. Money is firmer and funds are in demand for crop moving purposes. Moreantile collections are slow to fair.

purposes. Mercantile collections are slow to fair.

Somewhat less favorable reports come from the iron and steel lines. Price concessions, which have been in evidence for some weeks past, but which received scant consideration, are now being given more attention. Competition for what is going is keener, and, in short, the mills are producing and shipping at a greater rate than new orders are coming in.

Collections show some improvement. Business failures in the United States for the week ending August 24 were 193, against 215 last week, 235 in the like week of 1910, 201 in 1909, 235 in 1908, and 167 in 1907.
